Three list-price scenarios across the competitive range for a renovated home this size in Pasadena. Anne Arundel County seller costs. The loan payoff is the same subtraction in every column, so it is shown separately below rather than inside the comparison.

	List and sell at $475,000	List and sell at $490,000	List and sell at $510,000
Sale price	$475,000	$490,000	$510,000
Real estate commission (5.0%, placeholder)	$23,750	$24,500	$25,500

ESTIMATED NET TO YOU	—	—	—

The loan payoff. Public records show a first mortgage, a home equity line, and a 2016 commercial line have all been recorded against the property over the years. Bring your current payoff statement for each loan that is still open. Subtract that total from the net above and that is your take-home. The renovation you put in raises the sale price and the net; it does not change the payoff.

Taxes. You bought in 2010 for $274,900. If this has been your primary residence for at least two of the last five years, the first $250,000 of gain (single) or $500,000 (married filing jointly) is excluded from federal capital gains tax. Your gain here is well under that before the renovation is even added to your cost basis, so the sale is very likely fully federal-tax-free. Confirm with your CPA.

ASSUMPTIONS

1. Estimate only, not a closing disclosure or a guarantee of proceeds. 2. List prices of $475,000 to $510,000 bracket the competitive range for a renovated home this size in Pasadena 21122 (median sold price $478,500, median sold price per square foot about $272, August 2026). The exact list price is set at the walk-through. 3. Commission of 5.0% is a placeholder, negotiable, and set in the listing agreement; buyer-agent compensation is negotiated separately. 4. Anne Arundel transfer and recordation taxes shown at the seller's customary portion (about 1.0%); the exact split is set by contract and confirmed by title. 5. Loan and lien payoff, property-tax proration, any community-association fee, seller concessions, a buyer home warranty, or agreed repairs are not included here and reduce the net. Provide payoff statements for a final figure.
