

1341 Broening Hwy

Your Options and What Each One Means

Prepared for Weijun Wang | September 22, 2026 | Baltimore, MD 21224

The Property

Address	1341 Broening Hwy, Baltimore, MD 21224
Type and size	Brick townhouse, 1955. 2 bedrooms, 1 bath, 840 sq ft
Systems	Gas forced air heat, central air
Basement	Finished (public record)
Occupancy	Rented to a Section 8 tenant
2026 tax assessment	$111,500 (assessor market value $120,300)
Last sold	$55,150 in 1999

Where the Value Sits

The value of your home depends on two things: its condition, and the tenant. Here are the three paths and what each is worth.

Path	Estimated value
1. Sell now with the tenant in place	About $100,000
2. Wait for the lease to end, sell vacant as is	$115,000 to $135,000
3. Renovate, then sell	$150,000 to $170,000

The highest sale for a 2 bedroom, 1 bath in your area is 1118 Broening Hwy at $168,000 (June 2024). Fully renovated 2 bedroom, 2 bath homes are selling around $200,000 to $220,000, but those are larger homes.

Recent Sales Nearby

Closed sales of similar 2 bedroom, 1 bath townhomes (840 sq ft unless noted):

Address	Sold	Date	Note
1208 Broening Hwy	$135,000	June 2025	Same street, same year built (1955)
1108 Anglesea St	$125,000	Aug 2025	4 days on market
1106 Anglesea St	$115,000	Apr 2026	Most recent sale, 1 day on market
6436 Hartwait St	$127,200	Aug 2025	Larger (1,050 sq ft), auction
6313 Brown Ave	$85,000	Aug 2025	Larger, estate sale, cash only, as is

The three closest comps average about $125,000.

What Buyers Are Asking Today

Address	Price	Status	Note
6321 Brown Ave	$154,900	Active	1,050 sq ft, listed Sept 10, 2026
6302 Brown Ave	$154,900	Active	1,112 sq ft, listed Sept 10, 2026
1523 Elrino St	$139,900	Under contract	840 sq ft, 300 days on the market

Asking prices sit above what has closed. Larger homes and updated homes are the ones that reach the top of the range.

The Three Paths

Path 1: Sell now with the tenant in place

About $100,000

- Most buyers are investors, and they price the home on the rent and the lease.
- No repairs, no empty months, no renovation to manage. The fastest and simplest way to sell.
- You give up about $15,000 to $35,000 compared to selling vacant.

Path 2: Wait, then sell vacant as is

About $115,000 to $135,000

- You gain roughly $15,000 to $35,000 over Path 1.
- You keep paying taxes, insurance, and upkeep while you wait.
- You cannot control when the lease ends or what condition the home is in afterward.
- Waiting only makes sense if it costs you less than what you gain.

Path 3: Renovate, then sell

About $150,000 to $170,000

- The highest price, but not always the highest profit.
- Renovating adds roughly $35,000 compared to selling vacant as is.
- If the renovation costs more than that, Path 2 puts more money in your pocket.
- Managing a renovation from a distance adds risk and time.

The Trade-Offs at a Glance

	Path 1	Path 2	Path 3
Estimated price	About $100,000	$115,000 to $135,000	$150,000 to $170,000
Speed	Fastest	Slower, depends on the lease	Slowest
Effort	Lowest	Low	Highest
Risk	Lowest	Medium	Highest
Key question	Is speed worth $15K to $35K?	Will waiting cost less than you gain?	Will the work cost less than $35K?

Questions to Start Thinking About

1. How soon do you want the money? A faster sale and a higher price rarely go together.
2. What is the monthly rent, and when does the lease end?
3. Is the Section 8 contract current and in good standing? Does the tenant plan to stay?
4. What condition is the home in, and would you want to manage a renovation?
5. Would keeping it as a rental be better than selling?
6. Have you talked to your accountant about the tax effect of selling?

Next Steps

What I need from you: the monthly rent and lease end date; whether the Section 8 contract is current; the condition of the home and any updates you have made; and whether you prefer the money sooner or the highest price.

What I will do: give you a firm number for each path once I have the rent and lease details, run your estimated net proceeds for each path, and build the plan with you. I am ready to start as soon as you are.

Kyle Friedman | REALTOR®, The Friedman Team at eXp Realty

443-789-3101 | kyle@friedmanreteam.com

8115 Maple Lawn Blvd, Suite 350, Fulton, MD 20759

Estimates are based on public records, recent Baltimore area sales, and local market knowledge. This is not an appraisal. Comparable sale data from RPR, September 22, 2026. Equal Housing Opportunity.